2025 Mid-Year Checkpoint: Market Reality

The first half of 2025 has been both challenging and revealing. After a strong start to Q1, growth momentum slowed compared to the exceptional trajectory of 2024. Ad spend now closely tracks the S&P 500, indicating that programmatic advertising has matured into a market closely tied to broader economic trends.

U.S| All Segments - AY Ad Revenue Index Evolution [Month/Year]

The 2025 data shows strong momentum in the first half of the year, reaching approximately 90 points by June, the highest mid-year performance across the three-year comparison. All three years demonstrate similar seasonal patterns, but 2025's trajectory suggests a potential deviation, with growth stalling earlier than in previous years.

As Nils Lind, CEO & Founder of Assertive Yield, noted: "We saw a really strong Q1, but unfortunately, Q2 has not been to the same performance or improvements as we saw last year. We have seen, of course, an improvement going from Q1 to Q2, but the increase has been significantly less, around half of that growth as we saw last year."

Europe | All Segments - AY Ad Revenue Index Evolution [Month/Year]

The European programmatic market shows pronounced volatility and distinct recovery patterns shaped by regulatory pressures and market adaptation. Index values fluctuated between ~25 points during weaker periods and above 55 points in stronger cycles, making revenue streams less consistent compared to other regions.

As Nils Lind analyzed, "If we look at the revenue development in Europe specifically, we are seeing a significant increase in the second quarter. The first quarter was very weak. The second quarter has been doing significantly better, but only in the last month." The Digital Markets Act has also driven significant platform adjustments, with major tech companies facing substantial penalties.

SSPs Trends: Explore the Top-Performing SSPs!

Global | Tier 1 AY Prebid Top Performing SSPs in Q2'25

A notable trend this quarter is the shift toward efficiency across SSPs and DSPs. Platforms are prioritizing curated demand and pushing low-value inventory to the bottom. With over 80% of bid requests now including curation filters, buyers are focusing on ad layout, refresh rate, and content balance rather than sheer volume.

SSPs that adapt to this efficiency-first model are gaining ground, while those relying on bulk traffic strategies are losing relevance.

Top Global Market Trends for 2025

✅ The Quality Revolution: Publishers relying on high-volume, low-quality inventory are seeing major revenue drops. Clean, efficient operations and sustainable strategies are now essential.

✅ Programmatic Video Growth: Video remains the hottest segment, projected to hit $110 billion in 2025 and capture 75% of new programmatic dollars through 2026.

✅ Curation as the New Standard: With less than 20% of bid requests happening outside curation, publishers must optimize for curated demand to remain competitive.

✅ Operational Efficiency over Build-vs-Buy: All-in-one platforms (analytics, AI-powered Prebid server-side, traffic shaping) are making in-house builds less relevant.

Rounding Up

As we move through 2025, the industry is clearly transitioning into a quality-over-quantity era. U.S. publishers are adjusting to slower but stable growth, while European publishers face sharper volatility, shaped by regulatory changes. Across the board, curation, efficiency, and premium inventory are now the defining factors of success.

Assertive Yield remains committed to empowering publishers and ecosystem partners with the tools and insights to thrive in this evolving landscape.
